

Lori-Ann's One Year Cancer Free Anniversary

A Very Brave Cancer Survivor

This month my beautiful daughter celebrates one year of cancer free living.

It was March last year, after reluctantly going through months of Natural Cancer Therapy, and a 'whole heap' of tough love from yours truly, that her PET Scan and labs showed 'no more cancer.'

God is so amazing. Please... ALWAYS... help me remind my only child about eating and drinking healthy, because she has proven that food is indeed medicine.

Chemo/Radiation...almost killed my only child, but the saving grace of God intervened.

Always remember to abide by Genesis 1:29. As Hippocrates said, "Let thy food be thy medicine and thy medicine be thy food."

With lots of support and love from her young husband, her longtime friends and family members, an amazing daughter who became grandma's holistic enforcer in the Pace home... topped off with a 'whole heap' of prayer by a mom who would never give up...Thanks also to all the strong Prayer Warriors who kept our family prayed up...She made it.

Lori-Ann is a nurse and therefore did not believe food and food supplements could heal anyone, much less natural food supplements found in a health food store.

I had a difficult time getting her to try anything, but my extensive research showed that I was on the right track. The experts I consulted, and the research I did proved that she could get better. Giving up was not an option. I was not going to watch my only child die.

One day I 'complained' to my granddaughter that mommy won't take the stuff that will help her get better, and I needed her help. In front of her mom, I told her what the health supplements will do for her. I said, "I want to save your mom, my child, will you help me?"

She was eager to do anything that would save her mom's life. My daughter couldn't deny her child the opportunity to help her mom get better.

The strategy worked.

I showed her what to do and she was more than capable. She said 'Grandma whatever she's to get three times daily, I'll make sure she takes it before I go to school, as soon as I get home, and before I go to be at night. We were in business.

Getting her to eat only organics was hard but I had my little holistic police right in that house. Could she disappoint her daughter? No way. She took her treatments every day.

Very quickly, she began to feel better, able to eat and keep her food down and her pain became more manageable. It was working and Mama Bear was happy.

She was very excited because she really didn't believe much good would come of all that natural treatment, but her daughter was supervising, so she couldn't let her down.

I saw the change in her skin, her hair grew and her energy level was high. I took her to her favorite restaurant and she was able to eat and kept the food down. She was pain free. To God be the glory.

Months into the all-natural therapy, she took a picture of her supplement stash and showed it to her Oncologist, the third one, who told her "You're wasting money on all that garbage. You need to start a different kind of Chemo" Really, when she almost died from the last round of Chemo?

This is the picture she showed her oncologist.

said, "Mommy, this was one time I needed you there." He saw that I was dying from the chemo. My body was shutting down literally, organ by organ, my eyes were going blind, and he is berating my efforts to nourish my body, and bullying me to take more poison. I was feeling too dejected to speak my mind but if you were there, I know you would have set him straight." I certainly would. Especially since I know that 80 percent of Oncologist said they would never take chemo or give it to a family member.

Her daughter continued to supervise and when she secretly went in for another PET Scan and labs, everyone was surprised with the results. Comparing the last scan with this new one was like night and day. The last scan showed the tumors in several locations, but the new scan showed no tumors. Her labs look great, with the numbers back to normal range. The same Oncologist then said, "Keep doing what you're doing."

All thanks and praise goes to God who is the ultimate physician and healer.

Now she looks and feels as healthy as ever, and back doing the work she loves.
What a blessing.

Cancer Survivor and Daughter...My Holistic Therapy Enforcer

Lori-Ann, a conventionally trained nurse, is now confident that the right Organic foods, supplemented with the right Natural Health Food Supplements, used the right way, with a stress reduced lifestyle, minus all forms of sugar, with lots of purified water, can promote healing from illness and disease.

Per my research, I learned that Autoimmune Diseases cannot be healed by synthetic medications, ONLY by the proper use of Natural Organic Foods and good quality whole food Supplements. "Let food be thy medicine and medicine be thy food." - Hippocrates. He was right. When we look at Genesis 1:29, it is clear what God intend for us to do.

Correct Information is key. People need to know that most cancer patients who died, died from the effects of the Chemo and the radiation, NOT from cancer. Chemo also can make cancer move aggressively from stage 1 to stage 4 in short order. That's when those dishonest doctors will tell you that your cancer has become aggressive and you don't have much time to live. That's because the chemo has caused the cancer to get worse. That's what chemo does, or it kills your organs. Most cancer patients die of organ failure, due to the effects of chemo, NOT cancer.

But our God heals...To God be the glory!

I have shared my extensive research plus information from many, experienced Natural Therapy Experts, some of whom are conventionally trained doctors themselves, who want to help people heal instead of manage symptoms.

You can find most of my cancer research here:

www.mistybluecancercare.org

www.jahealthadvocate.com

Cancer is not a death sentence...except when you listen to the oncologist, or do nothing. Cancer grew in your body because something went wrong. Change your lifestyle, begin to eat differently, more healthy, Get rid of sugar from your diet. Drink lots purified water, keep your body in an alkaline state, get rid of stressors and you will be well on your way to helping your body to strengthen your immune system, and get rid of cancer. It's not complicated...you just have to believe you can help your body heal without adding more toxins.

Lori-Ann did it, so can you...It's a lifelong process, because after you get cancer, you have to remain vigilant to prevent it from coming back. Whatever you did to rid your body of cancer, you must continue to do the same thing, to keep cancer away.

Lori-Ann is back at work as a nurse, doing what she loves. Chemo did not help her. A combination of good quality organic foods supplemented with good wholefood health supplements did.

Get the facts. Learn all you can to heal your body. Become your own Health Advocate. We are here to help you.